MARKET COMMENTARY

Strong US economic data and earnings propelled the S&P 500 to an all-time high, up 5.34% on the month. Japan maintained its strong momentum, with the Nikkei 225 up 7.99%, as Japanese equities were boosted from a weakening yen. Emerging markets performed well, with the MSCI Emerging Markets index up 4.78%, supported by a rebound in Chinese stocks. Following supportive government intervention, the Shanghai Shenzhen 300 index rose 9.35%. UK equities were notable underperformers, with the FTSE 100 up just 0.45% on the month, as inflation remained sticky. In fixed income, yields rose as market participants continued to unwind aggressive rate cut bets made at the tail end of 2023 following resilient economic data and higher-than-expected inflation data. The 10-year US Treasury Yield rose 34bps to 4.25% and the 10-year UK Gilt yield rose 33bps to 4.12%. The Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index was down -1.26%, and Bloomberg Global High Yield Index rose 0.79%. Commodities struggled, with the Bloomberg Commodity index down -1.47% over the month. Gas prices continued to slide following muted global demand due to warm weather patterns. On-going political tensions in the Middle East and continued Opec+ supply cuts supported crude oil prices, with WTI up 3.18%. Precious metals had a mixed month, gold prices were up 0.23%, whilst silver fell 1.23%.
